Terror in Paradise: Life in Idi Amin's Uganda

During her ten years in Uganda, Sara Armstrong lived first as a Peace Corps Volunteer and then as a private citizen. She witnessed the long lasting effects of colonialism and watched a country struggle to survive. On January 25, 1971, Idi Amin Dada overthrew the government and plunged Uganda into a cycle of terror and bloodshed.

Sara witnessed the destruction of Uganda including the expulsion of the Asians and the Israeli raid on Entebbe Airport. Just before her departure in 1977 she saw the beginnings of the AIDS pandemic. This presentation is riveting and spellbinding as well as educational.
